MacArthur Warns 'Entire New War' Is Faced In Korea

Eighth Army of U. S. Troops Retreat Along a Blazing North Korean Front

TOKYO, Wednesday, Nov. 29.—(P)—General MacArthur conferred with his top generals until the early hours this morning on the critical war situation in Korea.

He had abruptly summoned his two field commanders, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker of the Eighth army, and Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond, commanding the 10th corps in northeast Korea.

Three other generals attended, including Maj. Gen. D. O. Hickey, MacArthur's acting chief of staff.

Associated Press correspondents, the only ones at the scene, were not allowed within the grounds of the U. S. Embassy, where the urgent conference was held.

The correspondents waited until the generals left. They were given no opportunity to talk to the generals.

Walker and Almond were called to Tokyo yesterday from the field on MacArthur's orders.

TOKYO, Nov. 28.—(P)—General Douglas MacArthur warned today that the non-Communist United Nations face "an entire new war" with the Red Chinese hordes crushing down on his retreating troops in Korea.

He said also in an extraordinary communique that he lacked authority to cope with the undeclared Chinese belligerents who now build their massive offensives with immunity from Allied air attack in Manchuria.

The commander of troops representing 53 non-Communist nations spoke out at a time of greatest crisis.

His cosmopolitan Eighth army of 110,000 battle-hardened troops was in retreat all along a flaming 75-mile front in northwest Korea. His hope of ending the war by Christmas was a shattered dream.

His hopeful "end-the-war" offensive launched only five days ago had turned into bitter reverses.

MacArthur summoned his two top field commanders, Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker and Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond from the battlefronts to Tokyo for emergency conferences.

He urged that the UN and all governments seek a solution to the developing crisis of Chinese Communist intervention.

The high commander said Red China had hurled 200,000 troops against UN forces in Korea and is throwing more thousands across the border from the "privileged sanctuary" of Manchuria.

Field dispatches underscored the developing crisis. They said masses of night-fighting Chinese Reds were pouring through a widening gap in the Eighth army's right flank.

Swarm Like Locusts
This was in the Tokchon area where fierce Communist assaults threw back three South Korean divisions as much as 20 miles.

Air observer reports said Chinese hordes were swarming like locusts "along every road, every gully and every ridge" for 35 miles north of Tokchon.

Their goal obviously was to turn the line and cut off nine allied divisions including the Am-

Still Suffer In the Storm Stricken Area

Struggle on to Get Conditions Back to Normal

By The Associated Press

Storm-swept eastern states, reeling from devastating blows from weather's elements, struggled today to get business and production back to normal.

The herculean job was being waged by thousands. They fought to clear areas of snow from the weekend storm which struck with paralyzing fury over wide parts of 22 eastern states.

The death toll from the winds, blizzards and cold mounted, with 278 fatalities in the storm-stricken region. Damage to property mounted to astronomical figures—estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

Thousands of homes remained without heat; others were without electricity and telephones. Communities were isolated. Schools remained closed in many snow-bound areas.

The weather bureau had a mild note of cheer. The intense storm, it reported, was almost stationary in the vicinity of Lake Huron and was dying—very slowly. Some light snow fell over parts of the middle Atlantic states and around the Great Lakes area. There were flurries in Kentucky and Tennessee.

But temperatures moderated in some areas and no below zero cold was reported over the snow-belt. However, they were below normal—under freezing—in some areas.

Ohio and Pennsylvania—two of the states hardest hit by the snow and wind storm—continued their fight to remove the mountainous piles of snow.

Ohio, with the highest death toll—55—was slowly but surely digging out from the heavy falls which had buried most of the state.

Hundreds of business and industrial firms in the two states called employees back to work and expected to be back to near normal operations by tomorrow.

Pennsylvania reported 35 deaths from the storm, 14 in Pittsburgh.

New York's death toll was 33 from the wind and rain storm that hit the east coast from South Carolina to Maine. Some estimates placed the property loss at $100,000,000.

W. E. Burfeind Found Dead in A Sand House

Shopman Victim Of Heart Attack On Monday

Walter Ernest Burfeind, 58, 123 East Saline street, laborer at the Missouri Pacific shops, was found dead about 7:50 o'clock this morning in the sand drying house in the west part of the new shop grounds. Death was contributed to a coronary condition, Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher, coroner, said after viewing the body and conducting an investigation.

Mr. Burfeind was last seen about 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon by J. H. Gwinn, 1908 South Park avenue, who worked in the vicinity when he went to the shed to talk to Burfeind just before quitting time. At that time Mr. Burfeind was loading the drying stove with sand.

According to other workmen, Mr. Burfeind filled the stove as his last duties of the day so the sand would be dry the following day for use in sand-blasting. He often was able to leave the place shortly before quitting time and sometimes it was a little later, and when other shop men started walking from their work for the day his absence was not noticed. Shortly before 8:00 o'clock, this morning, Mr. Gwinn went to the shack to check the sand and see Mr. Burfeind, who usually was at the job a little early.

Suffered Attack
He found Mr. Burfeind lying at the edge of the sand and from appearances it looked as if Mr. Burfeind was preparing to get a shovel full of sand when he suffered the attack and died.

Dr. Stauffacher said Mr. Burfeind probably died about 4:00 o'clock Monday afternoon. His absence was noted at his home Monday night, but no report was made.

Inspection For Sewer System

A final inspection of Sedalia's new sewer system, before its acceptance by the city, will be made, beginning at 2:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by the Citizens committee, the sewer and sanitation committee of the City Council, Mayor Herb E. Studer, Raymond Wilder, resident engineer and Ben Marshall, representing the Burns and McDonnell Engineering Co., Kansas City.

Free Parking on City Lots Friday

Sedalia's two parking lots, one on the south side of Fourth street, between Lamine and Massachusetts avenue, the other on the southeast corner of Second street and Kentucky avenue, will be thrown open for public use, free of charge, Friday, the day on which the Junior Chamber of Commerce will have its Christmas parade. Announcement to this effect was made this morning by Mayor Herb E. Studer, after consulting with Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors.

Sedalia Schools Dismiss For the Christmas Parade

Berry Appointed Director Civil Defense Here

Maj. H. O. Berry, 601 West Third street was appointed Civil Defense director of the Sedalia area late Monday afternoon by Mayor Herb E. Studer. The appointment was made at the request of Ralph W. Hammond, state director of Civil Defense. Maj. Berry serves without receiving any compensation.

Berry, a veteran of World Wars I and II, is retired from the army and holds the rank of Major. He served as Police Magistrate for two years.

It was announced that Berry will appoint several assistant directors who will assist him in his duties or organizing the Sedalia area to the point where emergency measures may be enacted at once if the need should arise. All will serve as volunteers and without pay.

According to Mayor Studer the appointment is effective as of today.

Choose Site of H-Bomb Plant

Has 250,000 Acres Along Savannah River in So. Carolina

ATLANTA, Nov. 28.—(P)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced here today that South Carolina has been selected as the site for a hydrogen bomb plant.

A prepared announcement released here by W. C. McKelvey of the Atomic Energy Commission said AEC and the E. I. Du Pont company chose a site of about 250,000 acres in Aiken and Barnwell counties, South Carolina, near the Savannah river.

The announcement said the Savannah river plant will not involve the actual manufacture of atomic weapons.

Five Burn to Death in Home

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 28.—(P)—Five members of a family burned to death early today in a fire that destroyed their three-room frame house.

The dead were identified as Alex W. Erhart, 30; his wife Margaret, 26, and their three children, Billy, six months, Janette, 6 years old and Kirsten, 3.

Their home was located about five miles southwest of here.

A passing motorist saw the fire and called Jefferson City police but by the time help arrived the house had been destroyed.

Erhart worked for a Jefferson City tractor company.

Charge Is Given UN Council

U. S. Delegate Austin Firm in Presentation of it On Aggression

By Max Harrelson

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 28.—(P)—The United States today charged the Chinese Communists with open and notorious aggression in Korea. It declared the consequences were potentially grave and called upon the United Nations and the world to face the facts squarely.

In one of the most critical meetings in the history of the Security Council, Chief U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin spoke directly to the representative of Red China, Wu Hsui-Chuan, who sat at the council table as an invited guest.

Austin shot a series of blunt questions at Wu. He asked:

Does the Peiping representative still maintain that the 200,000 troops in Korea are entirely volunteers?

"Will the representative tell the Security Council how long the Peiping regime has been planning and preparing for this aggression? Was all this being done while the Peiping radio was protesting the peaceful intentions of the Peiping regime?"

Wearing headphones, Wu listened intently but took few notes. It was generally expected he would ignore Austin's questions as well as the charges of aggression.

Not Let Threat Interfere

Austin called upon the council to act "promptly as convenient" on a six-power resolution demanding the withdrawal of the Chinese Communists from Korea. He added, however, that "We've been told the Soviet Union will vote against it and that will mean a veto."

It appeared from this remark that the United States may be ready to go ahead despite the Soviet veto threat. This would throw the whole issue into the 60-nation General Assembly under provisions of the recently approved Acheson plan for acting when the Security Council is stalemated by the veto.

Russia's Jacob A. Malik tried in vain to get the council to give the floor to Wu first to present charges that the United States was guilty of aggression against Formosa. The council voted 8 to 1 against the Soviet move. India and Yugoslavia abstained.

The Soviet delegate then declared the council was hostile to Red China and would not be capable of a fair discussion of the Chinese Communist charges.

Speech Revised

Austin revised his prepared speech at the last minute to include the charges of aggression.

Kenneth Buchholtz, president, will preside and James Van Wagner, program chairman, will introduce the speaker.

Selling Waves Lowers Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(P)—Selling arising from the shock of Korean war news swept stock market prices down today by $1 to more than $4 a share.

Orders to sell at the opening swamped the price reporting service shortly after the opening, and the ticker tape ran as much as two minutes late.

The first selling wave spent itself within the first hour and there were some slight recoveries here and there, but a second wave wiped out these gains shortly after mid-point of the session.

Chest Progress

The Sedalia Junior Chamber of Commerce will present to some young man during its observance of the founding of the national organization the week of January 14 to 21, the Distinguished Service Award.

It will be given to some Sedalian, between the ages of 21 and 35, selected by a committee of about five leading citizens, men over the age of 36. They will base their selection on the young man's achievements, leadership, service to community, personal character and ability. The consideration is for the calendar year of 1950.

This committee will welcome any suggestions of persons believed eligible for this award and will appreciate having the names left at the Chamber of Commerce office any time between now and December 15.

Harold W. Barrick is chairman of the committee to arrange for the celebration and the presentation of the award.

The organization was founded in St. Louis, Mo., January 21, 1920.

Problem Whether Or Not to Bomb Supply Centers of The Communists

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28

—(P)—The United States today publicly charged Communist China with aggression in Korea.

The charge was made by a State Department spokesman and immediately backed up by the White House.

"Whatever the State Department has done is done with the knowledge and approval of the President," said President Truman's press secretary, Charles G. Ross.

The charge—together with the massive counter-offensive of the Chinese hordes in Korea—raises the possibility that an extremely grave chain of events will now develop.

Perhaps the most urgent question is whether to bomb Communist transport and supply centers in Manchuria—and thus carry the war to Chinese soil. This problem clearly embraces the danger of an open outbreak of war between China and the United States. Soviet Russia is allied with China by treaty.

Keep Truman Informed

President Truman was being kept "fully informed" of the grave turn of events in Korea, Ross told reporters. He noted that Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, would confer with the chief executive later in the day (2:45 p. m. CST) and then remain to brief a cabinet meeting.

The aggression charge was first voiced publicly by State Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott. He referred to a special communique issued by Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Tokyo, declaring that U. N. forces in Korea now face "an entirely new war."

"This is aggression by the Chinese Communist regime," McDermott declared.

The United States has staved off making such an accusation in the hope that an absence of harsh charge might ease the way for a peaceful settlement through negotiations with Red Chinese authorities.

Prior to McDermott's public statement the American representative at the United Nations Ambassador Warren R. Austin, was told by telephone that the charge of aggression had been determined upon and that he should urge an immediate U. N. call for withdrawal of the Red China forces on that ground.

Mr. Truman was informed of the serious turn at an early hour this morning by General Bradley. The chairman of the joint chiefs himself was first told at 5:30 a. m. by Pentagon officers. Bradley at once notified joint chiefs and they held an early meeting at the Pentagon.

On Capitol Hill, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said today the report from MacArthur may force the "lame duck" session of Congress to stay in Washington through Christmas.

Taft is chairman of the Senate GOP policy committee which discussed the MacArthur report at a closed-door session.

Chinese Communists have been in northern Korea more than a month. During all that time, the United States government has refrained in statements before the U. N., or even informal statements to the press, from branding them as aggressors.

The charge is regarded by this government as having a formal, legalistic meaning—like charging an individual with "murder."

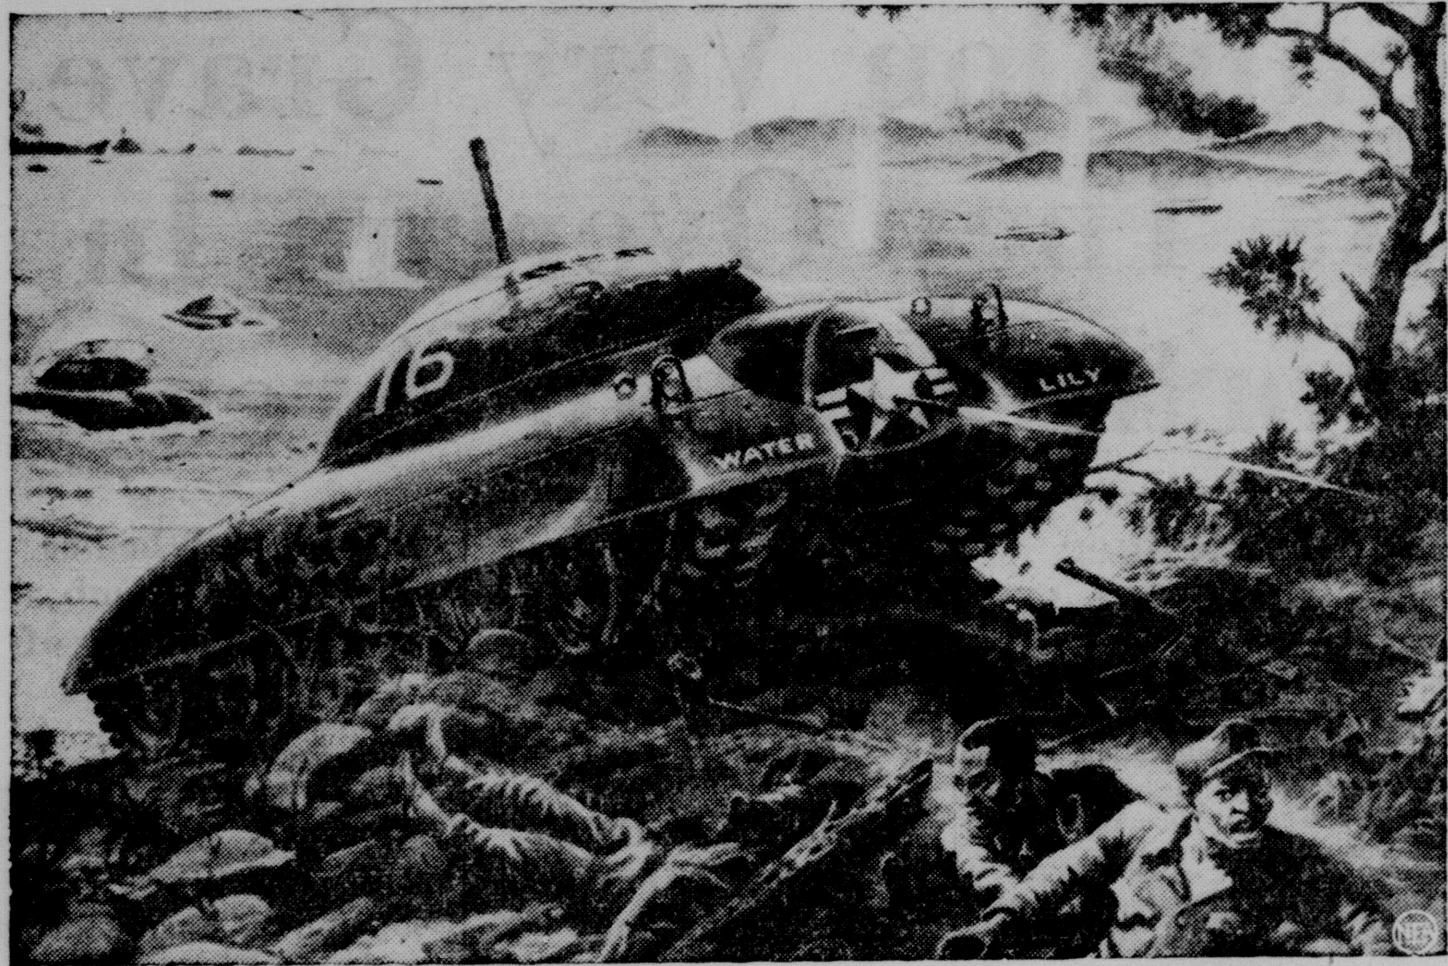

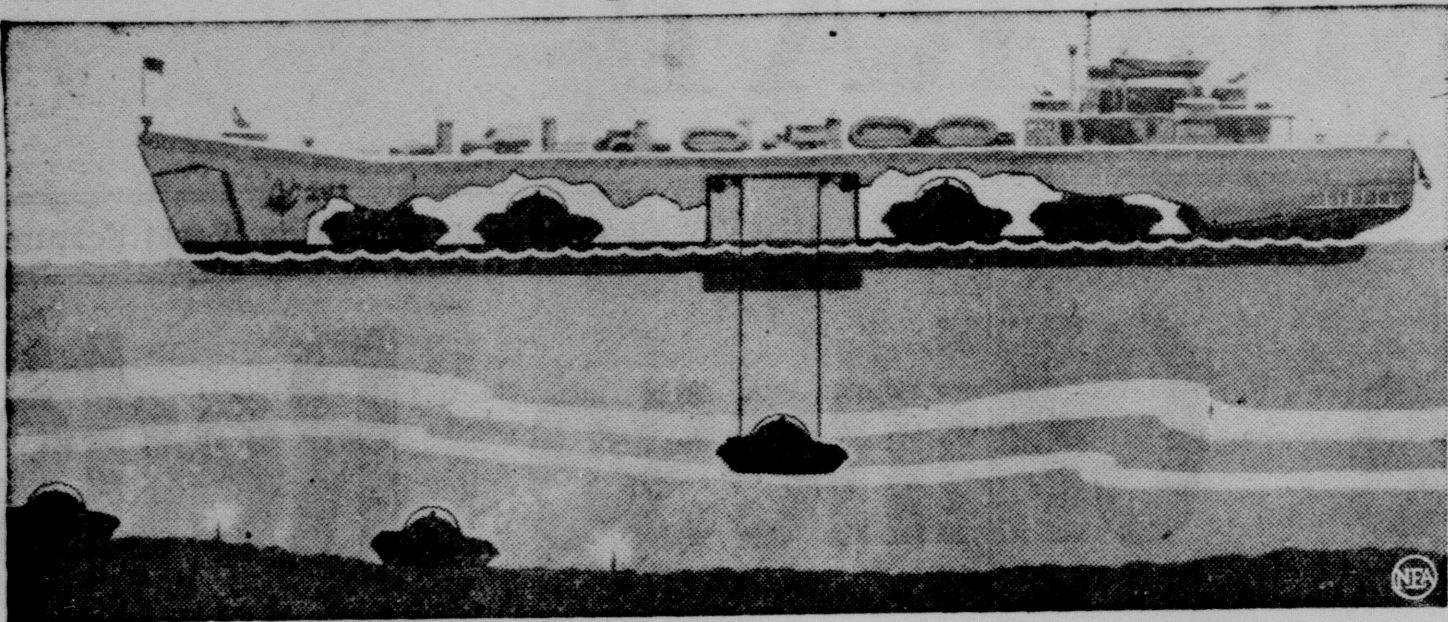

The policy decision now made reflects a sharp drop in hopes for a successful border negotiation with the Red Chinese which—it was recently thought—might have restored complete peace and independence to Korea by the end of the year.

McDermott made his statement in commenting on today's communique by Gen. Douglas MacArthur that the southward drive of the Chinese hordes means "we face an entirely new war."

Not Supervising Margaret Truman

By Cynthia Lowry

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 — (AP) — Helen Traubel, Metropolitan Wagnerian soprano confirmed Monday a report that she is no longer supervising the musical education of Margaret Truman.

Beyond disclosing that their professional association terminated last June, Miss Traubel said she had "no comment to make on any phase of the situation."

Asked if there were any unfriendliness on either side, the St. Louis-born singer said: "I hold Miss Truman in high esteem."

Later, the President's daughter released through the office of her manager, James A. Davidson, a statement that "she has nothing but the highest admiration of Miss Traubel."

"It is true that she is studying with someone else," the statement said, "but Miss Traubel is away on tour and with the Metropolitan opera a great deal and while she (Miss Truman) is gratified for everything Miss Traubel has done, she doesn't feel that she should take up so much of Miss Traubel's time."

It has been reported in musical circles that Miss Traubel did not believe her only pupil is ready for major concert work in large cities or for radio and television appearances as a solo star.

Miss Traubel would not comment on this, but in response to a question on how she felt about Miss Truman's career now, the opera star said: "If she continues to study and isn't deflected, she can have a fine career."

Kansas City Woman Tells Of Travels

Telling of her own experiences in Europe in which she saw the beautiful through the eyes of an artist and the ugly through the eyes of a refined American woman, Mrs. H. L. McReynolds of Kansas City gave her impressions of the countries she visited several years ago, in her talk Monday afternoon at Sorosis.

Her talk on "Art And Travel" touched on some of the eight countries she was in during the eight months she spent in Europe in 1946, returning to the United States in 1947. The visit was planned for the study of art and sculpture of those countries but the time she chose was so soon after the war that she often found her traveling difficult. She was one of the first to go to Europe after the war, she said. But one very good reason was that she had a daughter there, the wife of a lieutenant colonel.

As they neared the port of Naples, her destination, Mrs. McReynolds said she was thrilled with the beauty of the vivid blue of the Mediterranean on which were fishing boats with square orange sails. The wharf had been destroyed by the war and an Italian pilot and tug came out to meet the boat, circled again and again and finally nosed in close enough that a rope ladder could be thrown to him. He was red headed and dressed in white flannels and gold braid, much to the surprise of Mrs. McReynolds, who believed from stories she had heard that Italy, like most other countries there, was destitute.

Along the wharf at Naples there were ragged urchins, the speaker said, and everybody looked dejected and dirty. The front of the buildings were blown away where homes, some still with furniture, could be seen. The damage in Naples itself was not so great, she said, but she found there were only two classes of people, the very rich and the very poor. Mrs. McReynolds felt badly about the beggars on the street, many of them mothers with babies so thin and dirty. When men came for her door asking for money to the fine church in the neighborhood she asked why some of the money was not used to help the poor. The church has nothing to do with the poor, she was told.

Funerals Elaborate
Funerals there were very elaborate, Mrs. McReynolds said, and she told of her visits to several of the cemeteries in Italy in which were found wonderful statues, some by famous sculptors.

Mrs. McReynolds told of some of the paintings by noted artists, one exhibit she was fortunate enough to see being by 14th century artists. One of the outstanding masterpieces she saw was the original of "The Last Supper." She found hatred everywhere for the Americans who were blamed for all the destruction whether they did the bombing or not.

Her visit, however, in Switzerland was one of delight, she said, for here she found real beauty, the mountains, the valleys and the fields of gold and many shades of green. Here, too, she found food that was satisfactory, which the Italian food was not. She was allowed to take $50.00 into Switzerland, where her hotel and meals had already been paid for and she spent almost the entire sum for pastry.

As she was going to Switzerland a young man heard her say she was from Kansas City and he was interested. He had an aunt in Kansas City. He traveled with her and together they saw Switzerland and ate pastry.

There were bad moments, too, in her trips. Times when she couldn't get where she wanted to go. And times when she wondered why she ever left home.

Such a time was when she had to ride in an open car of a train on a cold, rainy night, because she was an American. And she was so cold she cried. It didn't help, either, to know that the bridges, they were going over, were being held up by tree trunks.

Mrs. McReynolds had difficulty in getting to Venice, too, because she was an American and just as she was discouraged about being allowed to go to a hotel a young woman walked through the door. There was a scream of delight from both women. "But," said Mrs. McReynolds, "she was not nearly as glad to see me as I was to see her." She was a friend of Mrs. McReynolds daughter and her husband, who was in the service and stationed there. The young woman's husband was away for a time and Mrs. McReynolds stayed at her apartment as her guest. Here Mrs. McReynolds said, she did most of her buying, the main thing being jewelry of which she is particularly fond.

The speaker said she visited several other countries but of all places she thought Lisbon, Portugal, was the most beautiful. She was quite impressed with the luxury of her hotel room there with white satin walls and quilted ceiling, rugs with pile a couple of inches thick and gold door knobs. She wondered how much such a room was going to cost her and was amazed when she paid her bill to find it only $11.50.

Guest at Luncheon
Mrs. McReynolds was introduced by Mrs. T. W. Croxton, chairman of the Art and Drama department. She was an overnight guest of Mrs. Croxton and a guest at a luncheon preceding the meeting.

Mrs. Croxton, chairman of next week's program, announced that there will be a luncheon next week in honor of the four speakers: Mrs. E. F. Yancey, who will talk on "Bells," Mrs. George Bischoff, who will talk on "Old Silver," Mrs. George Chambers on "Buttons" and Mrs. A. H. Bratten on "Stamps."

Mrs. Yancey announced that Mrs. Charles E. West of Colorado Springs, formerly of Sedalia, had sent three of her water color paintings as gifts to the Heard Memorial club house. The pictures were painted by Mrs. West when she visited in foreign countries, a number of years ago.

Mrs. Dimmitt Hoffman, president, presided over the meeting.

Church Wedding At Bahner

Miss Edna Westermier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Westermier, 2400 South Kentucky avenue, became the bride of Oscar A. Reusch of Mora Saturday, October 7th. The ceremony was performed before an altar setting of dahlias at 9:30 o'clock in the morning at the St. John's Catholic church in Bahner with the Reverend Father James Owens officiating at the nuptial mass. James Westermier and Johnnie Junior Seifner, brother and cousin of the bride, served at the mass.

Sister Mary Antonette at the organ and the choir of St. John's church sang, "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," "Mother Dear, O Pray For Me," "Queen of Peerless Majesty," "O Lord I Am Not Worthy" and the bridal march was played at the processional and recessional.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a fitted bodice, her long sleeves ending in a point over the hand. Her skirt lengthened into an aisle wide train and her finger tip lace edged veil was attached to a wreath of white flowers. She carried a bouquet of large white mums with white streamers. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls.

Miss Agnes Westermier, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown of blue crepe with pink headband and blue veil and carried a bouquet of pink mums with blue streamers. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls.

Miss Rose Ann Reusch, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a gown of pink net over taffeta with a blue headband and pink veil. She carried a bouquet of blue mums and pink streamers.

Miss Rose Mary Westermier, sister of the bride, was bride's attendant. She wore a gown of yellow taffeta, made by the bride's mother and yellow hair ribbon. She carried a bouquet of lavender mums and yellow streamers. Her only ornament was a heart locket.

Mr. Lawrence Reusch, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Mr. Leo Westermier and Mr. Anthony Westermier, brothers of the bride, served as the groomsmen.

Mr. Walter Reusch, brother of the bridegroom and Mr. Joe Westermier, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Carolyn Reusch, niece of the bridegroom in a green organ floor-length dress and Jane Frances Westermier, sister of the bride, in an orchid organ floor-length dress, were flower girls. They carried a basket of colored mums. Both dresses were made by the bride's mother. Their ornaments were heart-shaped lockets.

Mrs. Westermier, mother of the bride and Mrs. Reusch, mother of the bridegroom, wore navy blue dresses with navy blue accessories.

ries. Their corsages were of white carnations.

The wedding party had breakfast served to them by Miss Irma Reusch at the home of the bridegroom, following the wedding ceremony.

The dinner was served in the evening by Mrs. Frances Seifner, Mrs. Clare Reissen, Mrs. Joe Klein and Mrs. Leonard Goss at the home of the bride. The three tier wedding cake was decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom and lovebirds, baked by Mrs. M. J. Hula.

The reception was held at the Knights of Columbus hall Saturday evening. Refreshments were served by Jimmy Westermier, Matthew Westermier, Johnnie Seifner and Walter Reusch, brothers and cousin of the bride and bridegroom.

Knights of Columbus members, Mr. Paul Burke, Mr. Frank Rouchka, Mr. Charles Weller and Mr. Roy Klein assisted in serving refreshments and use of the hall.

Social Events

The first wedding to be held in the Fortuna Methodist church was Sunday, November 26, at 1:30 p.m. when Miss Mary Lou Carter was married to Billie Thomas Lawson. The single ring ceremony was read by the pastor, Rev. O. E. Patton. The attendants were Miss Dorothy Kueffer, Mrs. Lloyd Kasper, Lloyd Kasper and Dean Wilson Drake.

The bride's dress was of gold satin and her accessories were of beige and coffee brown. Miss Kueffer wore a blue dress with black accessories and Mrs. Kasper's dress was brown with brown accessories. The bride and her attendants had corsages of baby orchids.

After the wedding, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the newlyweds, their attendants and their parents. The couple left immediately following the reception for a short honeymoon in the south. They will be at home in an apartment at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Carter, in Tipton.

Mrs. Lawson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Carter of Fortuna. She attended high school in Tipton and was graduated in the class of '49. She attended Central Missouri State college, Warrensburg, after her graduation from high school.

Mr. Lawson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Lawson of Fortuna. He also attended high school in Tipton and was graduated in the class of '47 and is employed at the Putnam-Gabert garage in Tipton.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Congressional Battles Over Foreign Policy Resemble Woodrow Wilson's Day

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright 1950 By The Bell Syndicate Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—Judging from conversation heard in Capitol Hill cloakrooms, the current session of Congress may approach the post-World War I days of Woodrow Wilson when it comes to dissension over foreign policy.

It will be recalled that in the November, 1918, elections, Wilson lost control of his House of Representatives and from that time on opposition to his foreign policies increased, resulting finally in the defeat of the League of Nations and the Versailles treaty. Many leaders of both parties felt that this injection of politics into foreign policy paralyzed the nation and paved the way for World War II.

On Capitol Hill today leaders point to certain similarities between what happened then and what may happen today.

In November, 1918, for instance, the United States was winning in Europe. The armistice was signed on Nov. 11, just a few days after the election, but Wilson lost anyway. In November, 1950, the United States was likewise on the eve of victory in Korea. Yet Truman, though keeping a scant margin in Congress, for all practical purposes lost workable control of the Senate.

And the main issue contributing to Truman's setback was the attack led by Senator McCarthy on the State Department and its Chinese policy.

This is certain to lead to the following situations in the Senate:

ISOLATIONIST BLOC GROWS—Senator McCarthy has now proved that his combined formula of isolation plus investigating Communists pays political dividends. Furthermore, the Republican party owes him a debt. McCarthy made more than 30 speeches in key states, which means that the little group of Republican isolationists now not only have a vigorous spokesman, but a demonstration that their tactics pay. This isolationist group includes: Malone of Nevada, Wherry of Nebraska, Jenner of Indiana, Hickenlooper of Iowa, Ecton of Montana, Watkins of Utah, Bricker of Ohio, Brewster of Maine, Cain of Washington, Dworshak of Idaho. . . . In addition, certain mid-road Republicans, such as Flanders of Vermont, hitherto shunning the isolationists, are now leaning their way. Apparently they see that McCarthyism pays. . . . Senator Taft's big victory in Ohio also puts him more firmly in this camp. In the past, Taft did not really believe McCarthy's wild charges against the State Department, but was willing to go along for political reasons. Now the two are likely to cooperate closely.

REPUBLICAN LIBERAL BLOC—Diametrically opposed to the isolationists is another group of GOP Senators. They include various New Englanders and easterners who are bitterly opposed to both isolation and McCarthyism, such as Tobey of New Hampshire, Ives of New York, Mrs. Smith of Maine, Lodge of Massachusetts, Hendrickson of New Jersey. . . . With them usually, though not such vigorous scrappers, are Smith of New Jersey, Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Thye of Minnesota. . . . The only far westerner among them is Morse of Oregon, whom the McCarthyites want to bar from the Senate Foreign Relations committee. . . . In a different way, this group corresponds to the bloc of southern Democrats who frequently vote against the Truman administration. In other words, this bloc of liberal Republicans holds the balance of power on foreign policy; for southern Democrats, though disagreeing with Truman on the fair deal, will always uphold him on foreign relations. . . . Therefore, the GOP faces a split somewhat similar to that in the Democratic party—a split that will become greater as the foreign-affairs debate becomes more bitter.

THE ABSENT SENATOR—The man who did most to keep foreign policy on an even keel is now absent from the Senate—Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan. . . . Once an isolationist, he saw the dangers of repeating what happened after World War I. . . . So by conferring back and forth with the State Department, Vandenberg rewrote treaties, modified State Department policy, swung recalcitrant GOP colleagues into line, performed a magnificent service for his country. . . . Now Vandenberg is ill, and, contrary to expectation, he will probably not be back in January. Had a Republican governor been elected in Michigan, he would have resigned before now. . . . Unfortunately he can never be active in the Senate again.

THE SENATE VACUUM—Vandenberg's absence leaves a hole which may be expensive in terms of future peace. The man Vandenberg had hoped might fill his shoes is Lodge of Massachusetts, an A-1 Senator, but young. Senate jealousy being what it is, many Republicans won't follow Lodge. The other alternative is for Truman to exercise more diligence in conferring with top GOP leaders, or to appoint a Republican secretary of state. . . . Actually Truman has appointed Republicans to many of our highest foreign posts—Warren Austin as chief of the U.N. delegation, Walter Gifford as ambassador to London, John Foster Dulles as Acheson's chief adviser, Senator Lodge as a delegate to the United Nations, ex-Senator Cooper of Kentucky as another U.N. delegate. . . . However, the McCarthy isolationist bloc remains insatiable.

DID MCCARTHY REALLY WIN?—Not many Senators have seen the breakdown yet, but election figures sent from Wisconsin raise doubt as to whether McCarthyism really pays. Unquestionably it paid in certain states, but in McCarthy's home state, where they know him best, did it? . . . That is the question raised by detailed Wisconsin returns. . . . For wherever McCarthy campaigned in Wisconsin, the Republicans usually lost votes—despite the national trend in their favor. . . . For instance, Milwaukee county was carried by the Democratic candidate for governor in 1948 by 20,000. After McCarthy campaigned in the county in 1950, the Democratic governor's majority was 24,000. . . . One of McCarthy's first and biggest campaign meetings was at Kenosha. In 1948 Kenosha went Democratic by 1,546. But after McCarthy's campaigning, and despite the Republican trend, it went Democratic by 3,224. . . . The Democrats lost Eau Claire county in 1948 by 3,265 votes. But after McCarthy campaigned in 1950, the Democrats won by 242—despite the GOP trend. One of McCarthy's biggest rallies was in La Crosse county which went Republican in 1948 by 2,302 votes. This year the Democrats carried it by 270 votes. . . . Almost wherever McCarthy spoke in the state that knows him best, the Democrats gained. Maybe the rest of the nation will also wake up to him later.

Campaign Expenditure Law Fails to Bring Out True Story

By Bruce Bissat

The Ohio elections this year are a perfect example of the futility of trying to determine accurately how much money is spent in major political campaigns.

The law puts a limit on the amount individual candidates may spend, but it doesn't mean much, since there isn't a limit on the sums campaign committees and other contributors may put out.

In the important Senate contest, for instance, Senator Taft filed an expense record of $1529 and his Democratic opponent, Joseph T. Ferguson, one amounting to $870.

But if you add up the recorded expenditures of all the special Taft committees, you get a figure close to $430,000. And that's only part of the story.

The regular state Republican committee put out $435,000 during the campaign. Here you run into trouble. It can't all be ascribed to helping elect Taft, since that committee is responsible for promoting the whole state ticket. County candidates were handed money in addition.

Yet the costliest single items in the Taft campaign were paid for by the state committee—all the radio and television programs and the 600 billboards used for the senator. So what proportion of the $435,000 should be applied to Taft's expenditures? It's almost impossible to tell.

There's still another item. The state committee allotted an extra $107,800 to the campaign of the GOP's various congressional candidates. But in most places their promotion was woven in rather closely with Taft's. Their names often appeared on the same billboards, they showed up on the same platforms, were mentioned in the same radio programs, and they plugged Taft in their speeches.

How do you measure what share of the $107,800 should properly be chalked up to Taft? Again, who can tell?

If you added all these figures together, you'd come up with around $975,000. But the total obviously wouldn't be a sound indication of Taft expenses.

In the 1950 Ohio case, the problem is even greater. Tens of thousands of volunteers lent a hand at various stages of the campaign. Uncounted hours of free manpower, free gasoline, free telephone calls and assorted other things were tossed into the balance on the Taft side. They can't be priced.

On the Democratic side, the difficulties are no less. A day or so after the final date for filing of expenses, the most you could ascribe to the Ferguson campaign was around $120,000. This unfortunately included funds spent by the Democratic state committee for other candidates.

The Ohio CIO-PAC spent $74,470, according to the expense account filed by Jacob Clayman, the secretary-treasurer. Of this, he said, $48,204 came from "innumerable small contributions from thousands of persons." The bulk of the remainder was furnished by the national CIO-PAC.

Some other important labor outlays were still being prepared for filing, but it seemed clear the ultimate total would not be too revealing.

There was little likelihood, for example, that it would cover the cost of bringing in a long list of out-of-state speakers from the administration and the top labor command to speak against Taft. Furthermore, the national labor headquarters in Washington performed the basic research that supplied Ohio campaigners with their anti-Taft propaganda. How much did it cost to assemble and distribute the CIO's 200-odd page speaker's handbook which contained most of this material?

All of this suggests that as the law is now written and as campaigns are now conducted, very little can be done to ascertain fully what any candidate has spent. Perhaps only a congressional investigation could determine, but such inquiries are too costly to be made the rule.

If limits on campaign expenses are desirable, they ought to be extended to cover all contributors. Otherwise it would be better to forget the whole thing. Certainly it's perfectly silly to make wild charges and counter-charges about any man's outlays when there's not a hope in the world of proving or disproving them.

THE DUNGEON MAKES OR BREAKS US

The dungeon experience can make us or break us. Some it crushes, others it solidifies. A layman speaks of growing pains or growing conflicts. Conflicts may be of two kinds—one kind where you come out on the lower, defeat side, and the other where you come out on the higher, victory side.

It was said of Jesus that He went into the wilderness "full of the Spirit," and came out "in the power of the Spirit"—mere fullness turned to power under the stress of temptation. The dungeon of temptation resulted only in His being strengthened. The Evil One plays a losing game when he succeeds only in strengthening you through his temptations. You come out on the victory side of them. The account says: "Then Jesus told him, 'Begone, Satan! it is written, You must worship the Lord our God, and serve him alone. At this the devil left him.'" (Matthew 4:10—11, Moffatt.) When Jesus used the word "alone," "alone"—when Jesus uttered it he turned and left, because he knew that to tempt a man who stands on the word "alone" in a single-minded allegiance is only to strengthen that man. Every temptation strengthens the very fiber of such a man. He finds grace and more grace in the dungeon of temptation.

A gracious Christian lady said to another: "I know you dislike being ill. But I find the only thing to do is to get something out of every experience that comes to me. So make your illness give you something."

I find it hard to have to wait for people, but I've learned to make waiting contribute by forming the habit of immediately turning to prayer whenever I have to wait. I find that praying keeps my temper from getting ruffled and that I am also not wasting my time. It always leaves me an open door out of every dungeon. The possibility of prayer is always open, anywhere, at any time. If you lie awake at night, don't fret—pray!

Gracious Father, help me never to be nonplused. If I don't know what else to do, help me to turn naturally to prayer. Then no moment will be empty and fruitless. Every chink of every minute will be filled with the cement of prayer. So life will be held together by poise and calm and victory. I am grateful that I can always find grace in every dungeon. Amen.

Q. and A.

You and the Service

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Q. Why isn't the National Guard allowed to come home and visit more than they are? Since the men from our town were taken in active service they haven't been home once.

A. Once a Guard unit is federalized it comes under the same regulations on leave and furloughs as any other army unit. After the first period of training, however, you can probably look for some leave being given to the boys from the outfit.

Q. When the son of a neighbor of mine was drafted recently he was underweight. He went to camp and started drilling and collapsed. He was in the hospital a while and sent out to less strenuous duty and collapsed again. His mother is very sick over this situation. What should she do?

A. This man should seek a discharge from the army on grounds of physical disability. Army regulations provide for such discharges. He will be given a thorough physical examination to determine his condition.

Q. I recently received a telegram ordering me into service in the Air Force. Then I received a telegram revoking those orders. I am a reservist. What is my outlook?

A. Except for a very few highly critical specialists there are no more involuntary recalls of reservists being made by the Air Force. It is obvious that you are not in that critical specialist category because of the wire. So you can sit back and enjoy life with the chances of an involuntary call extremely slim.

Q. Just before my husband was called to active duty we bought a new house and car. We could afford them then. But now we can't on his army pay and they are threatening to take court action. On top of that I am going to have a baby. What can I do?

A. You should have your husband ask for advice from a representative of the Judge Advocate General's office in his unit. You are protected against such action by creditors by the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act.

Q. My brother was called to active duty from the organized reserves. He won a purple heart in World War II and many other decorations. Now our father is very sick. Can he be deferred from duty under the new rules?

A. There aren't any new rules affecting your brother's case. If your father's condition makes it a hardship case he can apply for a release on that basis.

THE STORY: Before he was killed, along with Sergeant Eddie and other members of his squad, in battle, Pvt. Carl Peterson had learned that his wife had been faithful. Now, after death, Carl and others of the squad find themselves in their home town. Carl goes to his home, still angry at his unfaithful wife.

VIII

CARL got up and looked over her shoulder. In the drawer were a great many letters apparently all from himself. The ones on top were V-mail microfilm single sheets which he had sent from various overseas stations.

Kirsten scooped out the letters. All of them, and carried them into the living room. Carl followed her just in time to see her dump the lot into the fireplace.

"Kirsten!" Carl protested from the depths of a wounded heart. "Don't you want to keep any of them?"

She hesitated, almost as if she had heard him, and bent over as if to take them back, but straightened up again resolutely with a gesture that put them and their writer out of her life forever. Her back was toward him so he did not see the expression on his wife's face as she fumbled for the box of matches which lay on the mantel. When she found it she stooped down once more and lit the papers.

She remembered one more thing and went to get it. Carl, through the bedroom door, saw her take an envelope from the right hip-pocket of her coveralls. She brought it back to the fireplace but before burning it she extracted the note which it contained and read it through.

So did Carl. It was not in his handwriting and he had to know. "Listen, sister," it read, "just because I got introduced kind of rough it ain't no reason why we shouldn't never have any more fun. After all what are we living for? I admit I was higher than a kite that night I drove you home from the shop. Still the only thing I'm sorry about is I haven't seen you again since. How about it, baby? I ain't got a date for to-night. Have you?"

"Just so you'll know who you can't forget I am sending along a snapshot I had took not long ago. What's Clark Gable got that I ain't got?—Max."

THE enclosed picture was of a stocky, self-consciously handsome young man in sport clothes, nice hair, close set eyes and a mouth with a mannequin smile on it. He was a determined looking character and if his photograph did not lie he would probably never suffer from blindness to his own interests. Perhaps Carl was prejudiced.

Certainly he was blinded by the fury which shook him. If there is any more nauseating poison than to gaze upon the face of a man who has usurped your place with the woman you love, hell has not yet released it for humanity to taste.

Carl's fury climbed over the bulwarks of his inherent phlegm. He wanted to be face to face with the original of that photograph.

Because his emotions translated themselves into action more rapidly than if he had been dependent on mere physical means of expression he was outside of the house and on his way while Kirsten was still standing before the fireplace with the letter and the photograph in her hand.

Carl did not therefore see the expression of ineffaceable disgust on his wife's features. Neither did he see her drop the papers on top of the still smoldering letters from himself.

No one, no one at all, saw the lovely, capable, sweetly womanly Kirsten as she finally stuffed old newspapers up the fireplace flue, closed and locked all the windows.

The Doctor Says—

Adolescence Brings Problems For Boys as Well as Girls

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Adolescence in boys comes somewhat later than in girls, lasts somewhat longer and carries with it different problems.

It is a normal stage of life and a normal stage of development. The medical problems and difficult behavior which sometimes accompany it are almost always out-grown.

Parents are frequently too much concerned over the outward signs of normal growth and development. Many of these are extremely annoying to grown-ups but unless accompanied by distinctly abnormal behavior they do not last forever and are merely things to pass off without too much worry.

In most cases of normal adolescence, it is the parents, rather than the boy, who really need attention.

The adolescent boy, roughly between 13 and 18, is halfway between a little boy and a man and feels himself neither one nor the other.

Sexual instincts arise at this time and should be discussed early and frankly with parents or physician. Accompanying these new sensations and awareness of the world are problems with which every boy has to wrestle to greater or lesser degree.

PRIVATE PETERSON was not at first aware of any reason why he should next have found himself back on the Lake Michigan beach with the rest of his squad.

The men were gathered in a ragged group around a focus of activity which seemed to be on the sand.

"What goes on?" Carl asked as he edged his way in.

"It's that girl," explained Jake Snyder. "She almost got drowned. Then this big guy come along and he's undrowning her."

Carl was near enough now to observe the workings of the resuscitation treatment. He was interested but not particularly until the man happened to turn his head to look over his shoulder as he spoke to Duke.

Then Carl knew instantly why he was there. The man was Max! The only person in all the world, even in Tokyo, whom Carl really hated.

Carl started toward Max. "Stand up, you! My name's Peterson and you can guess what I'm going to do to you."

Carl had counted without Eddie. Eddie blocked him off. Eddie was a good blocker, a lot of man and muscle. "Let him alone."

"But, Eddie," argued Carl, "this is the louse who—"

"Never mind who he is. Right now let him be. You heard me?"

Maybe Carl heard him but he certainly paid no attention. The moment Eddie's grip relaxed Carl lunged forward.

Eddie had to shove him out of the way this time. A good hard shove. It put Carl back on his rumbled-seat there in the sand with a resounding thump.

Deer Abound In Numerous Parts of State

Comeback Permits Killing of 369 Bucks on Monday

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 28—(AP)—Where one frightened white-tail deer roamed the Missouri Ozark woods 13 years ago there now are at least a dozen healthy specimens of the state's biggest game.

The miraculous comeback of the deer became apparent today after a count of yesterday's opening of the 1950 season—369 legal bucks checked at official weighing stations. That's far and away brighter than the story in, say 1933 when the legal kill during a three-day season was a puny 65.

What's the difference?

Conservation experts say the chief reasons are:

1. A continuing, scientific program by the State Conservation Commission to build up the deer herd. The program is aimed at a sometime total for the state of 200,000 animals. The commission says that will be about as large a herd as the state's feeding area can handle. (And then, the commission adds, the season will be open on both does and bucks.)

2. A more careful protection program—to cut down on the number of illegal kills, control forest fires and to move the animals to new foraging areas when the old areas become too crowded.

Opponents of the old Fish and Game department have said there was too much politics in that regime of wildlife management.

Whatever the reason, the Missouri deer herd had dropped to a sickly 3,000 to 4,000 by 1937—that despite the fact the old department had ordered one five-year closed season in the late '20's and was contemplating another at the time it was replaced by the Conservation Commission.

Situation at Present

Here are some comparative harvest figures on deer that should give an idea of the situation then and now:

In 1932, there were 1,903 deer tags sold and only 149 deer killed. In 1933 the figures were 2,567 and 65. In 1934 the report showed 2,636 tag hunters and 93 deer killed.

For 1935 the figures were 2,535 and 103 and in 1936 only 82 legal deer were bagged by 3,036 hunters. That's when the wildlife managers figured there should be a moratorium on deer hunting in Missouri. The 1937 figures were not available.

Then for six years the season on deer was closed. The deer herd progressed from the 1937 estimate of 3,000 to about 15,000 by 1944 when the first open season was permitted under the commission's management.

It was only a two-day season but the hunters bagged 583 legal bucks. Enthusiastically, the commission added a day to the season in 1945 and 882 deer were killed. The prospects darkened with that large a bag and the 1946 season was cut back to two days. The kill that year was a reported 743.

By 1947 the picture had brightened considerably and a substantial herd had come through. The season was lengthened again to three days and 1,400 bucks fell before the sporting rifles.

The 1948 and 1949 seasons or five days produced a legal bag of around 1,400 each year.

Still the deer herd swelled and this year's season was set for six days. Conservationists estimate there are between 30,000 and 40,000 deer in the state now.

The number of sportsmen and the hunting area both have grown, too. This year the commission has designated 26 counties in eastern, southeastern and southern Missouri as open to hunting. In 1944 there were only 20.

Back in the old days before the commission took over it apparently was legal to shoot deer anywhere they could be found. But in 1936, it should be noted, legal deer were taken in only 12 counties.

The commission has estimated there will be 25,000 red-capped sportsmen in the woods this year. Compare that with the 2,535 that bought deer tags in 1935.

In the old days, too, the Fish and Game department permitted private clubs to kill all the deer they wanted on private land and not report the bag to the state. Now Missouri takes the position counties about 15 miles from the town of Aiken, S. C., and about 20 miles from Augusta, Ga.

It is adjacent to the Savannah river and there are about 250,000 acres of land in the site.

The Du Pont Company had a hand in the decision because it was chosen as contractor for the plant. DuPont set up the Hanford, Wash., plant to produce plutonium, used in making the atomic bomb, but withdrew from its operation after the war.

Although the AEC has said it planned a "substantial" expansion of its facilities, it has never said officially that the work would be in connection with producing H-bombs which scientists figure might be 1,000 times as powerful as the A-bomb.

However, Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), chairman of the Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, has intimated that was a prime purpose.

The South Carolina plant, although keyed to the H-bomb project, will not actually produce the bombs—assuming the project is successful, rather, it will provide materials from which the H-bomb can be put together elsewhere. An AEC source described these materials as useful either for weapons or peace.

Cost About $260,000,000

The congressional source said the South Carolina installation would consist of a number of different plants and would cost $260,000,000.

This informant estimated that more than 1,500 families would have to move from the area during the next 18 months.

Towns affected include Jackson, Ellenton, Dunbarton and Snelling in South Carolina, but there was no immediate word as to whether all their residents would have to move.

There are several main reasons why the government needs such a whopping big area—some 250,000 acres—for this project.

1. Military and security considerations. Obviously, there must be enough room to allow dispersal of key structures, so as not to furnish a bunched target for enemy attack. Also, a large area allows isolation of the plant site from the "outside world"—thus lessening danger from saboteurs and spies.

2. Safety and Public health considerations. The workers will be dealing with dangerous radioactive materials.

Also, there must be sufficient room for the disposal or safe storage of various dangerous radioactive wastes produced in an atomic energy process.

3. The operating requirements of the plant facilities themselves require considerable room—that is, the plants themselves are big.

As for the materials to be produced, a reasonable guess is that the AEC will make "tritium" that all wildlife is the property of the people. There are no private hunting clubs with special privileges.

Those are the facts and figures. Maybe science can lend a hand to mother nature.

British Doubt a War With The Soviets Lies Ahead

difficult problems in years. It has many ramifications, but we may sum up the position like this:

British observers say America is more convinced of the approach of war with the Soviets than is England. Britons don't believe war is imminent but they are afraid the United States will precipitate it by becoming involved with China in the Far East.

Conflict Might Develop

Britain, say these observers, doesn't think Uncle Sam is looking for war with China, but they are afraid events are taking charge and that such a conflict might develop through Russia pushing China into it. Britain therefore is anxious to see the Korean war wound up as quickly as possible. And so is the United States.

There is another difference of viewpoint between Washington and London regarding their attitude towards Communist China. Britain has recognized the Peiping regime, whereas America has held aloof. That is a position which could cause complications if London should extend its relations with the Chinese Reds. Naturally the USA doesn't want to see that happen.

As for German rearmament, there are differences and there is considerable opposition among the Germans themselves to rearmament. However, the divergencies among the allies rest largely in questions of what safeguards would be necessary to ensure that Germany never again shall become an aggressor. There is no reason to suppose that these differences won't be ironed out in due course.

Yes there are differences among —one form of hydrogen—at this new plant.

Tritium is a possible ingredient of a hydrogen bomb, and some top scientists have speculated that both tritium and deuterium—another form of hydrogen—will be employed in the proposed bomb.

Arthritic, Rheumatic Victims Now Given New Hope of Surer, Faster Relief From Deep-Seated Pains

Wonderful Results Reported for New "Film Coated" Tablet

A noted Eastern scientist recently perfected a truly remarkable advancement, in the long search to find faster, longer-lasting relief from crippling pains of Arthritis, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, similar ailments.

HOW IT WORKS

Amazing new formula—containing seven active ingredients—is protected with a special "film-coating" to prevent useless and distressing action in the stomach. This "film-coated" tablet opens in the small intestine where ALL pain-relieving medicine quickly filters into the blood stream. Uric acid is reduced; blessed comfort is swiftly carried by the blood stream to every pain wracked muscle, joint and nerve so that miserable deep-seated pain and stiffness may be quickly relieved. Even most stubborn cases are helped.

the democracies. And these are the reflections of differences of opinion existing within the various countries. Just as American public opinion is divided on many issues, so is opinion divided in Britain and France and other nations of western Europe.

A country's policy must be made to conform to the ideas of its voters. It would be strange if all the views of America agreed with those of Britain and France and the other democracies. And it isn't necessary that there be such conformity for successful cooperation.

The thing which we need to be sure about, and which we can be sure about, is that in the great emergency of war the democracies would bury all differences and stand together.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. C. A. Smith

Mrs. Emma Smith, wife of C. A. Smith, 1106 South Ohio avenue, died unexpectedly this morning in Kansas City, Kas. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were visiting his sister there. They were down town shopping when Mrs. Smith suddenly collapsed on Minnesota avenue. An ambulance was called and on the way to Bethany hospital she passed away.

She is survived by her husband, C. A. Smith and a sister, Miss Lou Disque of the home, and a son, Dr. Harry D. Smith of Detroit, Mich.

Another sister, Miss Kate Disque preceded her in death on May 31, 1950.

Mrs. Smith was a member of the Broadway Presbyterian church. Her husband is a former city mail carrier here.

The body was brought to the Gillespie funeral home.

Paul Roe

Paul Roe, aged 20, died Friday in the home of his parents north of Stover.

Death resulted from asthma, a malady which had plagued the youth from birth.

Funeral services were held in the Stover Methodist church last Sunday afternoon.

Pallbearers were: Nelson Martens, Robert Hagedorn, Alfred Hickman, Arthur Brauer, Elbert Doeschen and Archie Hughes.

The Stevenson funeral home handled the service.

James C. Knudsen

James C. Knudsen, 71, died suddenly Sunday morning at his home south of Stover. Death resulted from a heart attack.

Mr. Knudsen had been ill for the past six months, but his condition was not believed serious and death came as a shock to his wife and many friends.

He is survived by his wife, the former Rudie Hughes, two sisters, one brother and one nephew.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at the Stover Baptist church at 2:00 p.m.

Pallbearers will be: Ernest Hughes, Harold Hughes, Archie Hughes, C. L. Hughes, Eugene Hughes and Clayton Taylor.

The body is at the Stevenson funeral home.

Funeral of W. M. Woolery

Funeral services for Walker M. Woolery, 39, of 619 East Ninth street, who died Sunday morning, were held at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon at the Gillespie funeral home with the Rev. Walter P. Arnold, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church, officiating.

E. W. Roffey, A. P. Beazley, H. E. Schwenk and Clyde Waters sang, "Jesus Savior Pilot Me" and "In the Sweet By and By," and Mr. Waters sang a solo, "Sunrise." Mrs. Clyde Waters was the accompanist.

Pallbearers were Glenn Reckard, Allen Porter, L. A. Duff, Robert McCarty, James Anderson and John Morarity.

Burial was in Crown Hill cemetery.

Funeral of Mrs. C. F. Berry

Funeral services for Mrs. C. F. Berry, of Cole Camp, who died at 7:00 o'clock Friday night, was held at 2:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Eickhoff funeral home in Cole Camp and a second service ice at Mt. Olivet church at 3:00 o'clock with the Rev. George Winston officiating.

Mrs. Homer Hall sang at the funeral home and Mrs. A. A. Mahnen at the church. The songs were, "No Shadows," "Rock of Ages" and "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Mrs. Ralph Berry was accompanist.

Pallbearers were Ralph Berry, Arthur Reedy, Daley Linville, Merlin Fields, E. L. Eickhoff, Jr., and Ralph Schwald.

Burial was in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Mrs. Berry was born five miles west of Cole Camp on January 29, 1875, the daughter of Jacob and Katherine Reif Corman. She was married to Mr. Berry on April 11, 1896. Four children were born to this union, one dying in infancy. Her husband died in 1946.

Surviving are three children, Roland Berry, Fayetteville, Ark.; Miland Berry, Cole Camp; and Mrs. H. G. Brady of Cole Camp; four brothers, Sam Corman, Los Angeles, Calif.; George Corman, Pomona, Mo.; Harry Corman, Cole Camp; and Lee Corman, Auburn, Ill., and three grandchildren.

Mrs. Sadie Nichols

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Buck received a message Friday advising them of the death of Mrs. Buck's mother, Mrs. Sadie Nichols, of Long Beach, Calif., at the home of her daughter, Miss Virginia Nichols.

Mrs. Nichols was the wife of the late G. C. "Gates" Nichols and for many years made their home in Sedalia and Jefferson City. Mr. Nichols passed away several years ago. She is survived by her daughters, Virginia, and Mrs. Perry Buck, of Sedalia, and a son, Launa Nichols, who has been missing since September when a plane in which he was piloting disappeared over a mountain range in California.

Burial will be in Long Beach.

Mrs. John Armstrong

Mrs. Clara J. Armstrong, wife of John Armstrong, 1017 South Lamine avenue, died at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon at her home.

Surviving are her husband, one daughter, Mrs. Rodney Shepherd and one son, attorney Frank Armstrong, of Sedalia.

The body is at the McLaughlin chapel.

Mrs. William Mien

Mrs. William Mien, 92 years old, formerly of Cole Camp, Mo., died at Deer Creek, Okla., at 7:00 o'clock Monday night. She had been in poor health for several months.

The body is being sent to the Eickhoff funeral home at Cole Camp, arriving this evening.

Mrs. Mien is survived by the following children: J. F. Rothganger, Terry hotel; Edward L. Rothganger, St. Louis; Walter Rothganger, Chicago; Mrs. Sadie Fox, with whom she made her home at Deer Creek, and Mrs. Lula Osieck of St. Louis.

Funeral services will be held at Cole Camp Friday morning.

Charge is Given UN Council

He referred to the grim war news from Korea and repeated Gen. MacArthur's declaration that more than 200,000 Chinese Communist troops are now fighting U. N. forces in Korea.

Austin's prepared text used the words "outright and naked aggression," but the former Vermont senator changed this in delivery to read "open and notorious."

He added: "The consequences of these facts must be faced squarely by the people of the world, and more particularly by this council. Because the consequences are potentially so grave I considered it essential to review the recent history of events in the far east. This is particularly necessary in view of the presence here for the first time of a representative of the Peiping regime."

The Soviet move came immediately after the United Nations Security Council convened to take up a general debate on both the Korean and the Formosan issues. A few minutes earlier it was announced in Washington that Chief U. S. Delegate Warren R. Austin had been instructed to bring the charges of aggression.

Austin hastily revised his prepared speech to include some new sections, dealing with the large-scale Chinese Communist intervention in Korea.

Several delegates had before them copies of Gen. MacArthur's communique calling for diplomatic action to solve the threat to U. N. forces in Korea.

Finds Against Estate in the Probate Court

Mrs. Hoerman by Ruling in VA Case To Get $8,508.60

Judge A. M. Harlan, of the Pettis County Probate Court, has found against the estate of Theodore A. Hoerman, 52, incompetent, in favor of his widowed mother, Mrs. Anna Hoerman, 76, Smithton, former guardian and curator of the estate, in that the estate owes to Mrs. Hoerman additional sums of money for maintenance for herself.

The case was brought to attention when the Veterans Administration filed exceptions and claims against Mrs. Hoerman on her final and annual settlement. The Veterans Administration had declared Mrs. Hoerman had wrongfully used $28.75 monthly insurance payments for herself the past 30 years when in reality they should have been credited to the estate of her son, a patient in a Government hospital since World War I.

The Government had claimed Mrs. Hoerman owed the estate $10,465, the amount of the payments made plus interest at eight per cent per annum compounded for the 30 years which totaled an additional $32,611.30. The Government had sought to recover the principal and interest amounting to $43,126.30 for the estate of Theodore A. Hoerman.

Hearing in October

A hearing on the claim was held before Judge Harlan on October 27 at which time the court took the evidence under advisement. He gave his opinion on the hearing Monday evening, in which he declared the estate owed to Mrs. Hoerman $1,508.60, plus $7,000 which Mrs. Hoerman was given credit by the estate when she transferred a deed to her home. The claim was not only against Mrs. Hoerman but also against her surety, the Fidelity and Casualty Co., of New York, who had a surety bond on Mrs. Hoerman for $16,000.

Theodore A. Hoerman, a veteran of World War I during his service had taken out an insurance policy with the Government. This policy paid to his estate $28.75 a month when he became disabled, and the Government made another additional payment to the estate for his disability. It was brought out at the hearing that Mrs. Hoerman's counsel at the beginning of her guardianship advised her she was entitled to the insurance payment as the beneficiary. The Government contended in their claim, Mrs. Hoerman was not entitled to the $28.75 insurance payment.

Added Allowance

It was pointed out, that as guardian she was allowed $41.74 each month from the estate. Judge Harlan, in his findings declared that the above mentioned amount was not sufficient for a dependent and made an additional allowance of $33.26 to cover the 30 year period. This would have given Mrs. Hoerman $75.00 each month for 30 years or up to the time she relinquished her guardian and curatorship, which was last February.

The court also found that the Government had waived each annual settlement of the guardian making it possible for the court to authorize and approve each annual settlement. It was not until after 30 years that the government discovered what is now claimed to be Mrs. Hoerman's error, and sought recovery of the payments she has retained under the insurance policy.

It was also brought out at the hearing that when the government had made a known they desired to make the collection, a deed to her home was secured for which she was given a $7,000 credit in the estate, without the professed knowledge of Mrs. Hoerman's attorneys.

The court pointed out that Mrs. Hoerman had collected $15,026.40 through the amounts of $41.74, while had she drawn the complete $75.00 each month she would have drawn $27,000. In other words he found the estate owed Mrs. Hoerman $11,973.60, while Mrs. Hoerman, through a misunderstanding and not through malice, had drawn $10,465 from the estate in the insurance payments, and at the present time the estate owes Mrs. Hoerman $1,508.60.

Entitled to $7,000

The court also declared Mrs. Hoerman is entitled to $7,000 for which she had been given credit on her home when she turned over to the estate the deed to her home.

Judge Harlan in his opinion pointed out that Mrs. Hoerman was born in Germany, came to this country at an early age and without knowledge of the English language or writing was under a handicap. That the knowledge of English was obtained through her children, that she cannot read handwriting in English, but can read some printing. That she re-erican 24th, Second 25th and First cavalry.

Other allied troops in north-central and northeast Korea faced fresh masses of Chinese Reds.

Twenty-one enemy divisions—8,000 to 10,000 men each—14 of them Chinese Communist—were reported officially identified in the 60-mile-wide strip between allied forces and the Manchurian border.

Other Chinese divisions were known to have crossed the border. "This situation, repugnant as it may be, poses issues beyond the authority of the United Nations military council—issues which must find their solution within the councils of the United Nations and the chancelleries of the world," MacArthur said.

This statement was issued as a final paragraph after his personally signed communique No. 14 was first distributed.

Military observers interpreted MacArthur's statement to mean the Chinese should be stopped by political pressure if possible or else MacArthur should be given authority to strike against the Chinese at their Manchurian bases.

Allied planes are under strict orders not to cross the Yalu river boundary in their attempts to bomb out routes for the Chinese into Korea.

But Soviet-built jet planes sweep across the border in attacks on allied planes and then whisk back without pursuit to their safe haven in Manchuria. Anti-aircraft fire from the Manchurian side of the border, which allied warplanes are barred from blasting, has thrown up an additional hazard.

MacArthur called his two senior field commanders back to Tokyo on one hour's notice.

Almond is commander of the U. S. 10th corps fighting in northeast Korea. Walker commands the U. S. Eighth army in northwest Korea.

MacArthur said heavy Chinese reinforcements concentrated in Manchuria are "constantly moving forward." Allied intelligence has estimated that a half million troops are poised there within striking distance of Korea.

Behind them are the vast manpower resources of all China, a nation of nearly a half billion population.

Eckert's Second Match Wednesday

Wednesday night will be a big night at the National Guard armory when Ray Eckert of California, Mo., clashes with "Tarzan" Kowalski, the "Polish Giant" from Detroit, Mich., in the main event on the card. It will be Eckert's second match at the local armory since his return to the mid-west after a three-year absence.

The semi-windup will see two of the best in wrestlers when Marshall Esteppe of Sturgeon, Mo., and Jerry Meeker of Missoula, Mont., meet in a two out of three fall match.

Opening the card will be a one fall event between Joe Benicosa, Long Beach, Calif., and Paul Saford, Denver, Colo.

lied entirely upon the advice of her then counsel when she was appointed guardian and curator. Her counsel when she became guardian and curator died several years ago, and she was unaware when she was doing any wrongful deed when she used the insurance money.

The court in closing his statement in the opinion said:

"WHEREFORE, it is ordered that the defendant proceed to make an amended final settlement in accordance with this opinion and judgment, charging herself with the insurance money retained by her in the sum of $10,465 and credit herself with the aforesaid additional allowance of $11,973.60; also credit value of the home of $7,000.

"The exceptions of the Veterans Administration heretofore filed, is overruled in all matters and contentions adverse to this finding and judgment.

"Signed A. M. Harlan, "Probate Court."

The estate, in accordance with the opinion, owes Mrs. Hoerman $8,508.60. This amount includes the $7,000 for which she was given credit when she signed and turned over the deed to her home to the estate.

Mrs. Hoerman relinquished her rights as guardian and curator in February of this year and E. R. Knox, Smithton banker, was appointed to take over her duties.

Henry C. Salveter and Fred F. Wesner represented Mrs. Hoerman at the hearing; V. E. Willis and J. E. Jirmars, Kansas City attorneys, represented the Veterans Administration while Don S. Lamm of the firm of Lamm, Barnett and Wolfe, represented the now guardian and curator, E. R. Knox.

Personals

Mrs. Margaret Youngkamp and sons, John and Vincent, were Thanksgiving guests of their daughter and sister, Mrs. William J. Murphy, Mr. Murphy and family at Columbia and attended the Missouri-Kansas football game.

Vincent Youngkamp, a student at St. John's Seminary, Kansas City, spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his mother, Mrs. Margaret Youngkamp, and brother, John.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert O. Hathaway, 717 East Fourteenth street, have returned home from Dallas, Tex., where they spent the Thanksgiving holidays with Mrs. Hathaway's uncle, T. F. Van Winkle. Their daughter, Judith Ann, spent Thanksgiving in Lexington with her grandparents, Rev. and Mrs. H. U. Campbell.

Damage Suit is Tried Today

A damage suit for $200 of Edna M. Foltz against Robert Van Horn, was tried in the Pettis County circuit court today. The suit was a result of an accident at Broadway and Grand avenue, early the morning of April 9th, when a car driven by Jack Foltz and Van Horn were in collision.

The verdict was for the defendant, Van Horn. A jury which heard the evidence is composed of Lacey Belt, Finis Withers, Clyde Manning, William A. Howell, George Lacey, Oden Bruce, George Coffman, Roy Chaney, Russell Culbertson, William Riecke, Marvin Goodwin, and Warner Vogt.

Evidence was complete before the jury shortly before noon. Bamberg and Bogutski were attorneys for the plaintiff, Robert S. Wesner for the defendant.

Man Hit by Car May be Sedalian

A man tentatively as A. L. Royster, 70, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighing about 150 pounds, gray hair and no teeth, is in a critical condition in a St. Louis hospital from injuries received when struck by an automobile Monday, near Brentwood, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis.

No address was found on the man as to where he might reside. In his pocket was a Sedalia Democrat, November 26, which indicated the man may have been in Sedalia on Sunday.

The State Highway Patrol has been requested to seek information here regarding the man. Anyone knowing him who might be in Sedalia is requested to notify the Sedalia police who in turn will contact the Highway Patrol.

Wine Bibber, 97, In Police Court

Ninety-seven years old, and still going "fairly" strong was a Negro picked up by the police Monday night when they received a complaint the man was drunk and disturbing the peace. The aged man told the officers he had been drinking wine.

This morning he was taken before Judge Jerry Trotter in police court where the judge, three times his junior, gave the man a lecture and ordered him taken to his home. The man assured the court he would not "partake too heavily" of wine anymore.

Only two overtime parkers failed to appear in police court, this morning, and their cash bonds of one-dollar each were ordered forfeited by Judge Trotter.

Grain Men See Enough Wheat For Your Bread But Maybe Not Enough Corn For Meat in 1951

OVER THE COUNTER: To produce each pound of the steak this customer's buying takes seven pounds of grain and forage.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

CHICAGO—(NEA)—We think of a steak as something juicy to broil and a loaf of bread as something you make sandwiches out of for the children's lunch box. But here in Chicago they think of them mainly in terms of bushels of corn and wheat.

We have a big corn and a big wheat crop this year. By my old grammar school arithmetic I figured, for example, that the more wheat, the more flour and the more flour the more bread and cakes and pies and no jump in price.

But they don't use my kind of arithmetic out here. They do everything out in terms of production and inflation to figure whether food prices are going up and how much.

To get the answers for papa's pocket and mother's food budget, I talked with Harry A. Bullis, board chairman of General Mills, largest flour producers in the world and second biggest makers of ready-to-eat breakfast cereals, and with Richard F. Uhlmann, president of Uhlmann Grain Co., and former president of Chicago Board of Trade.

Bullis, a national vice president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Committee on Economic Development, said: "Although the supply of food is good, my best guess is that the extra dollars for spending that our increasing defense program will put in people's pockets will continue to exert upward pressure on food prices. But I look for no substantial increases in the immediate future, particularly if we can check inflation."

I asked him if the price of bread will go up.

"I can't answer that directly," ing money may be too great as a result of our mobilization plans," he added. "About a year from now there may be around $25 billion more spending money in our pockets to buy only five billion dollars worth of more goods. Much of this should be siphoned off by taxation, interest rates and other such indirect controls if we hope to block runaway food prices."

Next I talked with Uhlmann, one of the best-informed grain men in the world. What he said makes mealtime sense when you remember that corn equals meat. "Our corn crop this year is estimated to be nearly four billion bushels," he reminded me in his Board of Trade Building office. "That's four per cent below the record year of 1949, but a billion bushels larger than in the years immediately before World War II."

He warned me not to be too sure that would be enough for all purposes, explaining: "Don't overlook the fact that our population is increasing at the rate of two to two and a half million persons a year. That could mean we are facing a rather permanent feed grain shortage. You see, we now have to produce about 22 bushels of corn per person in the United States to give him as much meat, eggs, butter and milk as he wants."

He added that we are raising a lot more bacon and pork chops this year than last and that those porkers are being fed to heavier weights.

"But fortunately, the corn yields per acre this year were above average and we had a record carry-over," he said. "It takes about seven pounds of grain and forage to produce a pound of meat."

He ended on this note of warning: "But unless we cut out our national extravagance and give the American dollar some social security, too, inflation is going to trim our full dinner plates."

Thieves Break-in Stover Milling Co.

Unidentified parties broke and entered the Stover Milling company in Stover Sunday evening taking $400 in cash and several items of merchandise.

Entry was made by breaking the door glass and turning a spring lock.

The thieves took a cash register containing accounts and bills, and a safe containing the cash. Also removed were a case of whiskey and a case of wine. The items in the cash register were recovered Monday near a road north of Stover.

The robbery was discovered at 9:30 by night watchmen John Wohlers and Alfred Mueller. It is believed they came upon the scene about an hour after the entry.

Big Four in Bowl Games Are Lined Up

Sooners Top Team In Poll Taken by Associated Press

By Fred Hayden

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The college football bowl picture was nearing completion today with the big four—the Rose, Sugar, Cotton and Orange Bowl games—among 14 already lined up.

At Pasadena, Calif., the New Year's day attraction will be California vs. Michigan in the Rose Bowl; in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl it will be Kentucky vs. Oklahoma; Dallas' Cotton Bowl will put Tennessee against Texas, and in Miami's Orange Bowl the Hurricanes will battle it out with Clemson's Tigers.

Five teams remain in the running for the Gator Bowl affair at Jacksonville, Fla.

California's Bears, the Pacific Coast conference winners who finished this season with nine victories and one tie, will be in the Rose Bowl for a third consecutive year and hope the third time will prove the charm. They bowed last January to Ohio State, 17-14, and in 1949 to Northwestern, 20-14. Michigan (5-3-1), the Big Ten champion, appeared in the Rose Bowl in 1948, routing USC 49-0.

Oklahoma (9-0-0), like California, will be playing a third straight time in the same bowl—the Sugar. Last New Year's, the Sooners drubbed Louisiana State, 35-0, and in 1949 they beat North Carolina, 14-6. Kentucky (10-1-0) was bidding for a perfect 1950 season before succumbing last week-end to Tennessee, 7-0.

The Sooners have a 30-game winning streak going, including their two previous New Orleans conquests, and will conclude their season Saturday against Oklahoma A & M. Bud Wilkinson's squad captured the Big Seven crown, while Kentucky's Wildcats are the Southeast conference kings.

Oklahoma was the No. 1 team in the Associated Press' final nationwide poll announced today.

Miami, in nine games so far this season, has won eight but was held to a tie by Louisville university. The Hurricanes will wind up their regular campaign Friday night against Missouri. Clemson (8-0-1) was runnerup to Washington and Lee in the Southern conference race. The Tigers have twice won post-season games. They defeated Boston college in the 1940 Cotton Bowl and won over Missouri in the 1949 Gator Bowl.

Wilkinson of Oklahoma said of the Sugar Bowl game, "We are very happy to be invited to the bowl and honored by the invitation."

Rival coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Kentucky expresses similar enthusiasm about the prospect of playing "such a fine team as Oklahoma. The boys also think it's a great honor. They indicated Oklahoma as their choice to play after we accepted the Sugar Bowl bid. They want to play the best team in the country."

The Cotton Bowl focus—Tennessee and Texas, were named last week.

Here's how the bowl games shape up today:

January 1.

Rose Bowl, Pasadena, Calif., Michigan vs. California.

Sugar Bowl, New Orleans: Kentucky vs. Oklahoma.

Cotton Bowl, Dallas: Tennessee vs. Texas.

Orange Bowl, Miami: Miami vs. Clemson.

Gator Bowl, Jacksonville, Fla.: Five teams under consideration with announcement expected today. They were Alabama, Wyoming, Nebraska, Tulsa and Washington and Lee.

Sun Bowl, El Paso, Texas: West Texas State vs. Cincinnati.

Salad Bowl, Phoenix, Ariz.: Arizona State (Tempe) vs. opponent to be selected, probably today.

Ten teams under consideration were: Drake, Miami of Ohio, Hardin-Simmons, Wichita, North Texas State, Villanova, Detroit, Tulsa, Loyola of Los Angeles and John Carroll.

Oleander Bowl, Galveston, Texas: Wharton (Tex.) Junior college vs. San Angelo (Tex.) Junior college.

Tangerine Bowl, Orlando, Fla.: Emory and Henry vs. Morris Harvey.

December 1.

Lions' Bowl, Laurel, Miss.: Holmes county (Miss.) Junior college vs. East Mississippi Junior college.

December 2.

Refrigerator Bowl, Evansville, Ind.: Gustavus Adolphus vs. Abilene Christian.

Orange Blossom Bowl, Miami: Florida A & M vs. Wilberforce (O.) State.

Potato Bowl, Bakersfield, Calif.: Olympic Junior college vs. Bak-

Sooners Vote To Accept Bid To Sugar Bowl

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 28.—(AP)—The University of Oklahoma football team—the Nation's No. 1—voted to the man Monday to return to New Orleans' Sugar Bowl and meet one-beaten Kentucky.

The Sooners, with 30 straight wins, will be back in the huge stadium Jan. 1 for the third consecutive year.

Wilkinson Happy

"We are very happy to be invited to the bowl and honored by the invitation," Coach Bud Wilkinson said after his team met and considered another trip south.

And Abe Goldberg, past president of the Sugar Bowl committee and a member of its executive committee, was equally happy.

"I feel the Sugar Bowl has invited the number one football team in the nation," he said here before returning to New Orleans tonight.

"Everyone feels deeply appreciative that Oklahoma has accepted the invitation," Goldberg added. "For the past two years they have not only played but won. They have made a lasting impression in New Orleans by their gentlemanly conduct and sportsmanship."

Kentucky a New OU Foe

Oklahoma, which has been in five post-season games but never against Kentucky, has yet to lose in the Sugar Bowl. In 1949 the Sooners licked North Carolina 14-6 and in 1950 whipped Louisiana State 35-0.

It was only last week that Oklahoma returned the $700 Sugar Bowl trophy. A $150 replica is given the school after the original is back in New Orleans.

Kentucky, voted the nation's No. 3 team in last week's Associated Press poll of sports editors across the country, was upset 7-0 Saturday by a powerful Cotton Bowl bound Tennessee team.

Bud to Miss East-West Game

Wilkinson, who several weeks ago told a reporter he thought Kentucky deserved consideration as one of the nation's top teams, will be unable to coach the west team as planned in the East-West Shrine football game in San Francisco next month.

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 28.—(AP)—California gets a third chance, came Jan. 1, to brighten the Pacific Coast's sorry Rose Bowl football record against the Big Ten.

The Golden Bears were named — along with Michigan — for the New Year's Day classic: Neither selection was a surprise, at least since Saturday.

Then Michigan earned the Western Conference nod by beating Ohio State, 9-3, although the blizzard-bound Wolverines couldn't get a single first down. They did it on two blocked punts and a powerful assist from North Western, which upset highly-favored Illinois, 14-7.

The Bears Record

California, in its season finale, was held to a 7-7 tie by Stanford, which finally played the game the experts thought it could all season. It was the Bears' only blemish on an otherwise perfect record. In fact, Cal. had won every regular season game for three years, only to bow twice in the Rose Bowl.

The Big Ten-Coast Conference five-year pact, which excludes any other nominees for the oldest bowl game, is in its fifth year. Here's the record to date:

1947—Illinois 45, UCLA 14
1948—Michigan 49, Southern California 0
1949—Northwestern 20, California 14
1950—Ohio State 17, California 14
Total Points—Big Ten 128, Coast Conference 42

But there may be a chance for the Bears this year, if you can rely on history repeating itself and the old adage that third time's a charm.

Standard Bore Jinx

Stanford is the only other team to appear in the Rose Bowl three times running. The "Vow Boys" of the mid-thirties did it and, like California, dropped the first two. But they won the third.

The Wolverines have an unparalleled record in the New Year's Day event. Twice they've made the trip, and twice they've won by identical 49-0 scores. Before handing U.S.C. that long count, they did it to Stanford in 1902, in the first Rose Bowl game.

California, which surprised even its own backers with its strength in what was to have been a Stanford year, is definitely the class of the coast. Pappy Waldorf lost a lot of veterans, but came up with a squad many observers think is the strongest in his five seasons at Berkeley.

Joe Woodson Dropped From Missouri Squad

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 28.—(AP)—Coach Don Faurot today held an indoor practice with no rough work for his Missouri Tigers. He hopes to retain last week's performance peak for the game at Miami, Fla., University Friday night.

The Tigers gained one player and lost one for the Miami game. Bob Ebing, senior end, has returned after last week's layoff because of an injury. Joe Woodson, junior guard, was dropped from the squad for failing to observe training rules. Faurot said.

John Girollo and Junior Wren, injury-hampered halfbacks, are expected to be in better shape this week.

Warsaw Routs Sacred Heart

Jerry Lumpe Paces Towering Visitors With 17 Counters

The Sacred Heart Gremlins went down to defeat at the hands of a big and sharp Warsaw Wildcat five Monday night in the S-H gym by a score of 54 to 18.

The Wildcats started slowly waiting three minutes before tallying their first bucket as Weist hitting a long set-shot. There was no stopping the Benton County boys thereafter. Scoring at will and displaying a sharp passing game the warsaw quintet rolled up a 26-10 half time lead. Jerry Lumpe, Wildcat ace, tallied nine points before being taken out midway the second quarter, also controlled the back-boards, taking virtually every rebound.

The Gremlins tallied eight points in the third period to end their nights scoring, being shutout in the final frame. Warsaw seemed to get hotter in the closing minutes of the third period, tallying 16 points in four minutes of play.

Jerry Lumpe led the scoring for the victors with 17. He was closely followed by Apperson with 16. Jerry Labus and Bill Hodges took the Gremlins scoring with six each.

The Sacred Heart "B" team came out on top of a 25-21 team in a nip and tuck game that had the fans on their feet the last quarter of the game. Pat Ryan led the S-H scoring with eight and White was high point man for the Wildcats hitting four field-goals for eight.

Warsaw wasn't a match for the Sacred Heart girls volleyball team taking a 41 to 13 trouncing. Sacred Heart's next game will be played here next Sunday against St. Peter's high of Jefferson City.

Tiger Cagers To Stover Tonight

Coach Jim Ball's Smith-Cotton Tigers will open their 1950-51 cage campaign tonight against the Stover Bulldogs at Stover. This will be Ball's fourth season as the head Bengal mentor. In that time his teams have won a total of 59 games while losing but 18.

The "B" team, under the tutelage of Howard Glavin, will play the opening game of the night against the Bulldog Pups. The Tiger "B" team is made up of freshmen and sophomore boys but they have worked out under Glavin's direction but one week.

Coach Ball plans to start five of the six following men: Bill McCrary, Ed Johnson, Bill Morgan, Bill Cooper, Bob Shawver and Claude Murphy. One of the two latter will get the starting fifth assignment, depending on the type defense the Bulldogs use.

Tonight's game will be the Bengals only outing before the CEMO tourney which gets underway Friday night at Columbia.

The following boys will leave from Smith-Cotton at 5:30 this evening for Stover: Varsity squad, Bill McCrary, Richard Lanning, Bill Cooper, Floyd Burton, Pat Forbis, Don Potter, Ed Johnson, Bob Shawver, Claude Murphy and Bill Morgan.

The "B" team men will be: Ray Homan, Bob Shepard, Bob Hieronymus, Richard Petit, Carl Mil-

A Christmas Carol

Illustrated by Walt Scott

Scrooge asked Marley's ghost if there was any way he could avoid the same fate as Marley. The ghost replied that Scrooge had one chance—a slim one.

"You will be haunted," said Jacob Marley's ghost, "by Three Spirits!" "I think I'd rather not," quavered Scrooge.

And with that, Marley was gone, leaving a badly shaken Scrooge behind him.

Boudreau Signed by Boston; Stephens Becomes Trade Bait

BOSTON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox' terse announcement it had signed Lou Boudreau, deposited Cleveland manager, to a player contract Monday lubricated the trading gears for next week's major league baseball meetings.

And it also indicated that Vern "Junior" Stephens, regular shortstop for the past three seasons, now is Red Sox bait in possible deals for much needed pitching strength.

After making his Boudreau disclosure, general manager Joe Cronin became incommunicado in his Friday park office.

O'Neill Gives Information

But manager Steve O'Neill, contacted by phone at home in the Cleveland vicinity, was much more informative.

"Now that we have Boudreau, we can afford to give up a regular infielder to get pitchers," O'Neill said. "I will be in St. Petersburg, Fla., for the major league meetings next Monday and I will not lose any time finding out the pitchers who are available. Right now we have no deals hanging fire."

Boudreau, in Harvey, Ill., said "where and when I will play for the Boston Red Sox is strictly up to Manager Steve O'Neill."

Boudreau, reported to have had a $65,000 manager-player contract with Cleveland, added, "it was between the Red Sox and New York Yankees all the way."

Cpl. Duvall Sails For Yokahoma

Sunday night Mrs. Henry B. Duvall received a long distance call from her husband, Cpl. Henry B. Duvall, in Seattle, Wash., telling her that he was sailing for Yokahoma, Japan.

But there was another important person he had to talk to, too, his most ardent fan, his 17 months old son, Hank Lee. It was a big thrill for Hank Lee, who has a little picture of his daddy that he carries around most of the time and talks to, to hear his daddy's voice. He smiled as the voice came to him over the wire, then he called: "Daddy, daddy, daddy," and long afterward went around the house saying "Daddy."

Cpl. Duvall, who was called back into service on October 19, has finished his refresher course and is now on his way to the occupational center in Yokahoma, Japan. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Duvall, 611 North Grand avenue, where his wife and son also reside.

Deer Crippled by Auto is Killed

Friday noon James D. Logsdon, of Knob Noster, employed at the Warrensburg airport, was driving down highway 50 en route home, because it was a big day in his family, his daughter was getting married.

Suddenly, from somewhere a deer dashed out across the road and Logsdon's car hit it, turning his car around and damaging it to the extent of about $20.00. But the deer was in much worse shape than the car—it had to be shot.

Mr. Logsdon immediately called Jack Frost, conservation agent in Warrensburg, who came for the animal and Logsdon continued on to his home and his daughter's wedding.

It was believed by Mr. Logsdon that the deer had wandered away from the Knob Noster state park onto the highway. He hit it a fourth mile west of Clear Fork bridge and he said it felt like he had hit something steel.

Assignments To Divisions

All board members of the Chamber of Commerce will this week receive special letters informing them which division they will head, giving them a general outline of the work of that division and what will be expected of them.

A form will also be inclosed on which they will be asked to list their chairman and committee members.

A large chart will be made, when all division directors have reported, on which will be listed the directors of each division, the chairmen and members of the committees. The chart will be placed in the Chamber of Commerce office where it may be seen at any time.

The board is elected by the membership, then each board member is assigned to the head of a division. In each division are several sections and each director names the head of each section. These men or women then name their committee members.

County 4-H'ers Get Honors

Pettis County 4-H club members won five of 27 places allotted Missouri at the National 4-H conference in Chicago this week, and four of the five are there, with all expenses paid.

Those attending are: Anna Lee Harvey, state recreation winner; Duane Leiter, state gardening winner; Wilburn Hayes, Jr., state tractor maintenance winner; Betty Jean Klein, state alternate winner in girls' record.

Forest Eugene Reid, district winner in meat animal was unable to go.

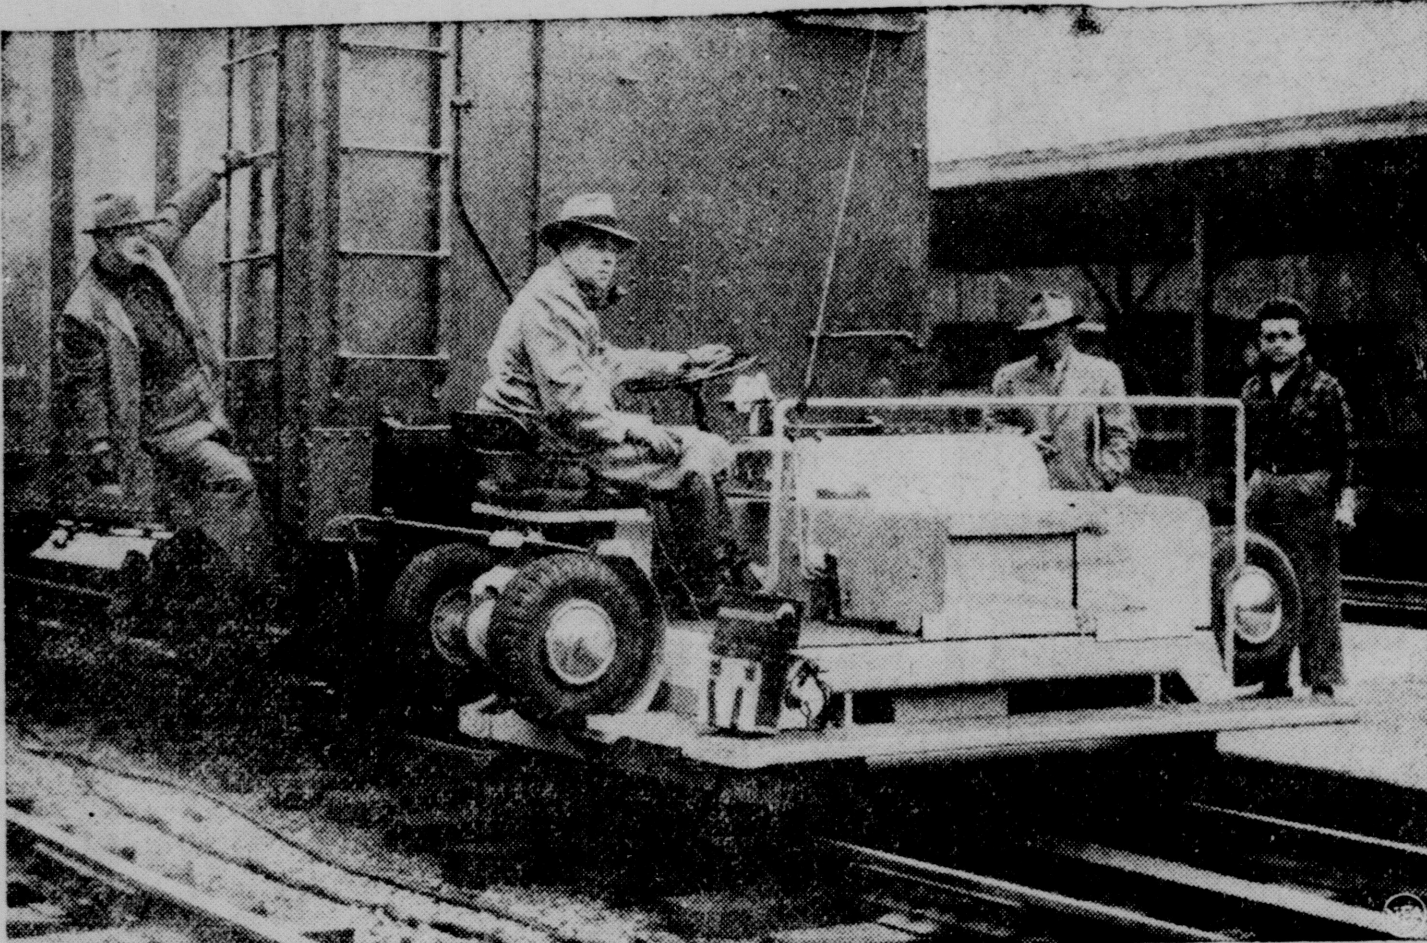

Wilburn Hayes was Missouri nominee for the quiz-kid program and was one of the five in the nation selected to take part on the program Sunday. Each participant received a $100 bond to further their education.

Sedalians who listened to the program stated Hayes answered more questions than any other of the participants.

The climate of the Gran Chaco of Paraguay is like that of southern Florida.

New Switch in Railroading

Long-familiar switch engines may be replaced in railroad yards by the new "trackmobile," a 6,000-pound tractor small enough to park in your living room. Above, it pulls a train of loaded freight cars at Harvey, Ill. Called the world's mightiest electric-propelled industrial tractor, the 10-foot-long machine has towed a load of locomotives weighing more than half a million pounds. The tractor has retractable rubber-tired wheels so that the operator can change from rail to ground operation in 30 seconds.

In Ironic Role

Dr. T. F. Tsiang, above, delegate from Nationalist China, will be president of the UN Security Council for December under that body's rotating presidency set-up. Ironic note is that Tsiang's turn in the chair comes just after Red China's delegation arrives at Lake Success, N. Y., to make charges of American aggression on Formosa. Dr. Tsiang doesn't recognize the Chinese Communist government and the Chinese Reds don't recognize his own.

Have a 'Thanksgiving' Day Coming Up This Week

It was going to be a big Thanksgiving day in one Sedalia home, for like in many other homes, they were going to have a family reunion.

The woman in the home where the big feast was to be held was walking on air because her brother and his wife were coming from Arkansas. She could hardly wait. She buzzed around in her kitchen getting the goose ready, making the salad, making pies and dozens of other things she could do beforehand. In the homes of aunts and cousins there was activity, too, they were also making pies and getting their part of the dinner ready.

The brother and his wife were to come in sometime Wednesday night and when it began to get quite late the woman began to worry. There were bad snowstorms that might have stopped them and in her mind she imagined dozens of things that might have happened. She called some of her relatives in town and they all worried. She didn't go to bed — she couldn't sleep. It was after 2:00 o'clock when she finally went to bed but she left the light burning — just in case. It was a restless, fearful night and early next morning she called his home to see what had happened. There was no answer. Then she was frantic.

Luckily, however, she had a cousin living in the same Arkansas city and she put in another long distance call to her.

There was a laugh at the other end of the line when she told of her anxiety over her brother.

"He will be there next week for Thanksgiving," said the cousin. "Our state doesn't have Thanksgiving until November 30. This is just a normal day here and everybody is safe and sound."

The sister breathed a sigh of relief. After all her brother had said: "I'll be there Thanksgiving Day—" and it never occurred to either of them that Missouri was observing Thanksgiving on November 23 and Arkansas on November 30.

So all the family in Sedalia gathered at the woman's home and had a big feast anyway — and now they are doubly thankful — they have another Thanksgiving coming up this week, too. All the parties planned for the special guests last week-end were cancelled and this week they will be held as planned—one week late.
